Oklahoma OKs landfill expansion

March 8 -- A landfill in Sand Springs, Okla., is being given the go-ahead to expand by 150 acres to accommodate future disposal needs.

American Environmental landfill said expansion approval from the Oklahoma Department of Environmental Quality will add 50 years of life expectancy to the site near Tulsa.

"We are deeply committed to meeting and exceeding environmental standards. ODEQ's approval of our expansion enables us to continue this commitment as well as develop an even greater capacity to serve others for many years to come," said Todd Green, the landfill's general manager.
